2023 Genealogy Series

Public Service: Military and Civilian

Welcome!

The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) is pleased to present this educational series of lectures on how to conduct family research.

As one of the nation's premier genealogy institutions, it is our mission to inform the public about National Archives holdings that relate to family history and to make those records available to you.

About the Sessions

Our presentations will demonstrate how to use federal resources at the National Archives and Records Administration for genealogical research. This year we focus on individuals who have served our nation in military or civilian service. We also have a session on how to preserve your own family collections.

National Archives presenters are broadcasting from Washington, DC; College Park, MD; Denver, CO; and St. Louis, MO. Sessions are intended for beginners to experienced family historians—all are welcome!

Basic Military Records at the National Archives: Revolutionary War to 1917

This presentation outlines basic military records held at the National Archives Building in Washington, DC. The records cover the "Old Military" period from the Revolutionary War to 1917 and are characterized by different types of service, including volunteer service (state regiments and militias) as well as the Regular military (Army, Navy, and Marine Corps). Each type of service was documented differently, but there are also basic records common to all types of service.

Muster Rolls Access Policy

The National Archives in Washington, DC (Archives 1) Reference Branch is the custodian of United States Army muster rolls from the Revolutionary War through 1916, both Regular Army and Volunteer units. This branch also holds muster rolls of the Confederate States Army. Without exception, all the muster rolls are fragile, and many are in poor physical condition. To better preserve them, this branch has initiated the following policies for their use:

- Muster rolls can be pulled for viewing in the Research Room only if the information sought by the researcher is unavailable in other records or publications, and if the staff determines that pulling the muster rolls in question will not cause further deterioration.
- Photocopying of muster rolls is prohibited under all circumstances.
- Non-flash photography of muster rolls may be permitted upon approval by the staff in the Research Room. Flash photography is never allowed.
- Digitization of muster rolls is permitted only after the records have undergone appropriate conservation treatment.
